Some criticize WCRC for airport involvement

BY DALE GOWING
Of The Roman Staff

To some people, logic dictates that a port authority should deal specifically with seaports, a utilities commission with public utilities, and a road commission with roads.

To others, however, that doesn't seem to follow.

Amid the intricacies of the current legal battle between Romulus and the Wayne County Road Commission (WCRC) over a runway expansion program at the WCRC-operated Detroit Metropolitan Airport, accusations have arisen that the WCRC should not have anything to do with the airport, but rather it should confine itself to road repair.

NOT ONLY the homeowners who stand to be affected by any runway expansion at the airport are complaining, but Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt also has questioned the logic of having the airport controlled by the WCRC.

All critics of the WCRC's handling of the airport have charged the commission with diluting its talents by having its fingers in too many pies. In addition to the airport and roads, the WCRC oversees the Hines Parkway System and several sewer and water programs.

"The county roads are terrible," charged Troutt. "Especially some of the county roads in Romulus. The WCRC should stick to fixing roads instead of getting involved in airports."

WCRC Chairman Michael Berry disagreed, however, citing the commission's history in airport operation as a valuable commodity.

"THE WCRC HAS the staff, so why not utilize that experience?" he said. He said the commission has governed the Airport since it first opened several decades ago, and the knowledge in airport management obtained by the WCRC is invaluable.

In fact, Berry noted that a study made three years ago by the Citizens Advisory Council resulted in the WCRC's airport being named as the "best run agency" in Michigan.

"That is proof of its effectiveness," he said. "It'll put its record against any agency in the nation."

Local officials have suggested the establishment of an airport authority, consisting of local people who can more closely relate to the problems the airport could create in the community. Such an idea is not feasible, Berry said.

"A SEPARATE airport authority would have to have separate staff, architects and engineers," he explained. "It would be a duplication of efforts. The costs would be astronomical and the people of Wayne County are burdened enough with taxes."

"This seems to me to be an ideal situation as it is. This agency established the first method of financing airports and it was copied by airports all over the country. It is a self-sustaining facility and it doesn't cost taxpayers one cent in tax money."

"That's something not many agencies can say."

According to WCRC General Legal Counsel John Cushman, a state aeronautics code, established more than 20 years ago, delegates airport authority in counties with a population of at least one million to the county's road commission.

From junk to...

Romulus metal sculptor Chuck Haubrick puts the finishing touches on a 5-foot-long "automobile" he molded from old tricycle, typewriter and appliance parts. A crank lever from an old ice cream maker serves as the auto's differential, he said. — Photo by The Romulus Roman's Chief Photographer Lothar Konietzko.

It's junk

But he makes it into art

When an old typewriter, clock or adding machine reaches the end of its operational days, it generally is discarded as junk.

But to Chuck Haubrick of Romulus, such junk can be the key to works of art.

The 35-year-old part-time sculptor takes parts from just about all types of mechanical devices and adds them with bits of wire, tubing and iron bars to make model cars, airplanes, boats and trains, which wind up on display at a Plymouth art gallery.

HAUBRICK EVEN molds human figures in his backyard workshop.

"I basically use the interior mechanisms of things like typewriters and clocks," he explained. Presently, the father of three is busy at work on a five-foot long automobile sculpture, which also will be in the art gallery, called the Plymouth Gallery Twelve, where 11 artists besides Haubrick exhibit their wares.

The gallery is at 801 Pennworth and there is no admission charge to the public.

An advanced engineering designer at Ford Motor Co.'s Design Center in Dearborn, Haubrick views his sculpturing as an "avocation" rather than merely a hobby. He has been doing it for 10 years.

ONE REASON HE views his artistry more seriously is because of the awards he has received for his projects. Last year Haubrick won the National Sculpture Award at the Jackson Art Festival and was one of 10 Americans mentioned in the Review of Modern Art, a magazine published in France.

His sculptures have sale value, too, and Haubrick proudly tells of a sale he made last year of a model automobile to a Ford executive being transferred to an overseas office.

And what about the five-foot-long car he's working on now?

"Well, it's being made of some typewriter keys, four tricycle tires and—oh yes, a crank from an ice cream maker," he said.

Employment on decline

City, township officials eye end to job skid

BY DALE GOWING
Of The Roman Staff

The Romulus and Huron Township representative on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners has asked the board to create a committee of "community experts" to seek methods of halting the county's current employment skid.

Edgar L. Harris, 26th District commissioner, covering Romulus, Huron Township, Flat Rock, Taylor and Rockwood, said the declining number of jobs and new businesses and industries in the county is cause for alarm and should be checked.

"I found out it is going way down in jobs and in the number of businesses the county is losing," Harris said, referring to the discovery he made while reading a U.S. Department of Commerce report showing the decline in the number of businesses in the county.

THE REPORT showed that between 1962 and 1972, the number of businesses in the county dropped from 44,416 to 35,858. Most of the loss, however, was among firms with fewer than three employees.

The number of firms with 500 or more employees dropped from 221 in 1968 to 214 in 1972.

Harris said that in 1969, 956,354 people were employed in the county, but the number dropped to 922,705 in 1970 and 903,510 in 1972.

"Eighty-five per cent of the county's working people depend on their paychecks from commercial and industrial businesses," he said. "When you lose this many jobs, you're hurting." He said the decline in new firms also is hurting the county's tax base.

"I PROPOSED the board create an ad-hoc committee of business, labor and education field experts to advise the county on this. It needs a publicity and public relations drive to at least maintain our present industry and lure new industry." The proposal was referred to the commission's public works committee.

Harris said a recently enacted state law, giving new industries a lower tax rate, should help lure some businesses into the county, but called on the county's present businessmen to act as its "business ambassadors."

Property owners gain tax break

BY HENRY CANTIN
Of The Roman Staff

Property owners in the Romulus Community School District will be getting a break on school taxes this winter due to an increase in the district's State Equalized Valuation (SEV) of property.

The Romulus Board of Education Monday night approved a winter tax levy of 16.85 mills per $1,000 of assessed property valuation. The board's action was in concurrence with a recommendation made by Romulus School Supt. Robert E. McConeghy.

The total school tax levy now stands at 33.70 mills. The levy includes an operating millage of 16.85 and 6.05 mills for debt retirement.

AN INCREASE in the district's SEV from $187 million in 1972-74 to $204 million in the 1974-75 resulted in a reduction of 1/2 mill, or 50 cents, in the collection of the debt retirement portion of the levy.

The school district taxes are collected by the City of Romulus treasurer in summer and winter assessments.

In other matters, the school board authorized McConeghy to file an application with the Michigan State Department of Education for approval of a state $400,000 aid loan.

The funds will be used by the district for operating expenses during the tax collecting interval.

The school board also:

—APPROVED an amended student-parent handbook for the upcoming school year. The 24-page handbook contains guidelines in the handling of students' situations and suspensions and policy on students' conduct.

—Approved the purchase of new combination unit check writing equipment, recommended by McConeghy. It will cost some $5,480.

—Granted an administration request for equipment purchases for the Cory, Mt. Pleasant and Merriam Elementary Schools.

—Took under advisement four bids on the purchase of a tractor and authorized the letting of bids on the purchase of two utility pickup trucks.

—APPROVED an evaluative report submitted by Assistant Principal William McDonald, who told the school board that the guard service at Romulus High School currently has resulted in keeping vandalism at a minimum and further improvement is being made to make the grounds more visible at the school's park lot.

It's a modern look for your newspaper

BY LUCY WIESEND
Editor of The Roman

For the past few months, The Romulus Roman has been changing—changing its emphasis on news coverage to provide our readers with more of an analytical picture of the day-to-day happenings in the area, for example—but the most striking change readers will notice is the look of today's edition.

Since The Romulus Roman's personality has been changing with its new emphasis on the reasons and the people behind the news, we have decided that with this new, more vital personality, a new look would be appropriate.

You may not be able to tell a book by its cover, but most people do try to tell a newspaper by its front and editorial pages, according to studies.

THEREFORE, with The Romulus Roman's new personality comes a front and editorial page face lifting. A face lifting that has been proven preferred by most newspaper readers. A face lifting that will give The Romulus Roman a more modern appearance.

Starting today, The Romulus Roman is employing an op-format on the front and editorial pages giving this newspaper with a bright, breezy and eye-catching appearance.

The op-format means a 6-column format with wider columns. Aside from being easier to read, the wider columns will give us a better opportunity to display photographs. Photographs of your neighbors, your relatives, your friends or maybe even you.

Readers prefer a modern front page format to a traditional one of eight columns of news according to a study conducted by the American Newspaper Publishers Association News Research Center.

"OVERALL THE findings of the study are a ringing endorsement for newspapers with modern formats," according to a report. "Readers like them." And we here at The Romulus Roman hope you like our new look, too. We hope you think the look is more attractive and easier to read. And even more important we hope you feel they look matches our new personality and that you respond to that personality.

The Romulus Roman's new personality will make it more of a people newspaper. We have maintained an emphasis on local news for years and will continue and expand upon that emphasis.

City contract talks continue in Romulus

Negotiations between the City of Romulus and about 100 city employees for a new pact are continuing after the workers delayed ratification of the city's proposed contract package.

The city and employees' union are in agreement over the majority of contract issues, but foggy job classifications and descriptions caused the employees to vote down ratification of the package.

According to a spokesman for the employees union, job classification and descriptions in the city always have been unclear.

"When the union gets that cleared up, it probably will ratify the contract. The new administration is more than willing to go along with the union," spokesman said. "The employees want to be sure their job areas would be clarified."

The employees' old 3-year contract expired July 31. The city has offered a new contract to extend "two years for wages and three years for the language," the spokesman said.

Included in the city offer are a 40-cents-per-hour, across-the-board wage increase and 10-cent cost of living increases.

The Roman hikes price

Effective with this issue of The Romulus Roman, the carrier home-delivery price will be adjusted to 75 cents per month. This is the first price increase made on carrier home delivery in almost four years.

This increase is necessary because of high production costs of publishing your hometown newspaper.

The news carrier who delivers The Belleville Enterprise to your door will be receiving a substantial share of the increase in price.

Revisions to food stamp are issued

Revisions and amendments to the U.S. food stamps program were issued recently by the Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) of the federal Department of Agriculture, based on a Supreme Court decision that the "tax dependency" and "relatedness" provisions of the old program were unconstitutional. The regulations implement amendments to the Food Stamp Act contained in the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973, and became effective when published in the Federal Register on July 15.

States are required to complete implementation of the changes which directly relate to certification of households by Nov. 1 for all new applications and by March 1, 1975 for all other households.

THE NEW provisions include broaden eligibility categories to include the elderly in federally-sponsored housing, and drug addicts and alcoholics in private, non-profit residential treatment facilities.

It also allows the elderly to use food stamps to purchase meals in specified communal dining situations.

The program requires states to give welfare recipients the option to have the costs of their coupons deducted from their grant and the coupons mailed to them. States must implement this by July 1, 1975.

Recipients affected by the unavoidable breakdown of food stamp equipment are allowed to apply for food stamps under emergency eligibility standards.

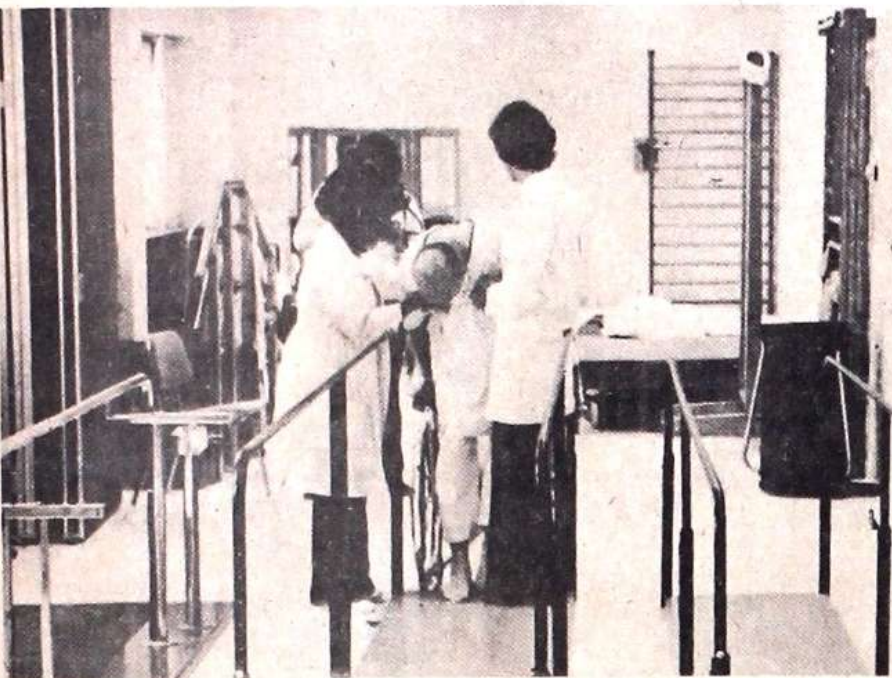

Income include the actual value of housing received in kind from an employer can not exceed $25 per month.

Households living in remote areas of Alaska can use food stamps to purchase certain hunting and fishing equipment for procuring food.

Recipients must be citizens of the United States or legally permanent residents.

The program bans participation by strikers once a court has deemed the strike illegal, and reduces from 15 to 10 days the advance notice period given households whose benefits are being reduced or terminated.

For ROTC training

Scholarships available

This year, for the first time, a scholarship selection board will meet in October to award up to 300 Army ROTC 4-year scholarships. High School seniors who have taken either the ACT or SAT are encouraged to apply for these scholarships now.

The completed applications must be submitted by Sept. 1. Local interviews will take place during the month of September and the winners will be announced by Oct. 15. Applicants who do not win a scholarship during the early selection cycle will remain in competition for the normal selection cycle in March when the remaining scholarship winners will be selected. The March selection board will not know which applicants were previously considered.

EACH YEAR, the Army awards over 1,000 4-year scholarships to high school seniors across the country. Michigan furnished 25 winners last year, 11 of whom were from the metropolitan Detroit area. The scholarships cover tuition, fees and supplies for four years of college.

The winners also receive a tax-free subsistence allowance of $100 per school month. Scholarships are awarded on the basis of ability and do not consider financial need.

Scholarship winners can use their scholarships at any university which hosts an Army ROTC program; there are nine in Michigan.

High school seniors interested in applying for the scholarship should write directly to Army ROTC Scholarships, Fort Knox, Ky. 40121.

County appoints director

The Wayne County Department of Health has appointed the public health chief of Prince Georges County, Md. as the director of Wayne County General Hospital.

The new director will be Dr. Perry Stearns. He will become the first permanent head of the Western Wayne County facility since the resignation of Dr. George Pickett in 1971.

A graduate of Harvard University and the Boston University School of Medicine, Dr. Stearns, 50, replaces the acting director, S. John Stock, who will assume the post of deputy director. The county was unable to name Stock as head of the Westland-based facility because of a state statute, requiring that the director be a medical doctor.

Secretaries' contract goes to school board

New contract proposals for the 1974-75 school year have been presented to the administration of the Van Buren Public School District by the Van Buren Association of Educational Secretaries. The association presented 16 items in the areas of salary and fringe benefit improvements, said School District Business Manager Irvin VonDestinon.

The proposals currently are under review pending the setting of an initial negotiation session between the association and school board representatives.

The present 2-year contract covering the district's 38 secretaries expired June 30.

The association's negotiating team consists of Shari Smith, president; Susan Zoelling, secretary-treasurer; Roberta Cullin, vice-president; and members Deborah Belaire and Judy Davis.

Romulus awaits action on minibus transit plan

Action is expected within "the next couple of weeks" on Romulus' plans to bring a minibus transportation program to the city, according to one of the two officials assigned to study the program.

John Chihan, the city's director of industrial development and planning, said he and City Councilman Jack Trumble are planning meetings with the Southeast Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) "to find out the total scope of what it can give the city."

"We're setting up some meetings with the SEMTA people and probably will be doing several things on it in the next couple of weeks," he said. "One thing we have to determine is whether the city has enough people for the minibus program."

"SEMTA has guidelines to determine if the city has enough people here."

SEMTA has told Romulus it would give the city the minibuses, according to a 2-year contract, after which Romulus would begin absorbing the operational costs of the vehicles.

SEMTA, a state-funded authority, must have a definite answer from Romulus regarding its desire for the minibuses by Oct. 1 to fit it into the state budget.

The minibuses would operate within Romulus and connect with the larger bus lines going to Western Wayne County shopping centers and downtown Detroit.

WCRC responds to plans

IN NEW YORK City and adjacent New Jersey, the New York and New Jersey Port Authority governs airports, he explained, while the Boston Port Authority operates Logan Field in that city. In San Francisco, the airport ruler is the city's utilities commission.

Berry said each of those authorities is "under attack constantly," although they have been rated highly in their airport operational duties. And if a separate airport authority—or the City of Romulus—were to take charge of the Airport, the same would happen to it, he claimed.

"If it weren't the WCRC operating the airport, but Romulus instead, people would pick on Romulus and say it's not doing its job," he said. "The same with an authority. The New York Port Authority is under attack constantly."

Berry said he feels Romulus has taken the right road by going to court, if it believes it has been affected unjustly by the airport, and said the relations between the city and the WCRC are peaceful, in his opinion.

"I DON'T KNOW when there has ever been disharmony between the WCRC and Romulus," he said. "The WCRC certainly doesn't have a feud with Romulus and I don't consider this a feud or a fight."

"If it has a grievance against something, the court is the proper way to solve it. If Romulus feels affected unjustly, it should go through the courts. But there's not personal animosity among us," he said.

After construction

Seniors to regain meet room

Members of the Romulus Senior Citizens who thought they were being shoved out of their city hall meeting room permanently, can rest a bit easier now.

The group will be back in its long-time meeting room soon, according to Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt, just as soon as construction on six new office additions to the room is completed.

Officers of the senior citizens organization expressed fear that they were being locked out of their large room permanently, and were complaining about the lack of space in a temporary room at 'The city didn't have adequate office space...'

Morgan Manor Apartments, donated for their use by the apartment management.

BUT ACCORDING to Troutt, the city needed portions of the room for more offices and had to close off the room to group use while the construction was in progress. "The city didn't have adequate office space to operate in, so it had to build offices in that room," he said. "The room still will be there for the senior citizens' use and they will have more than adequate space for their membership."

Troutt said construction of the six new offices should be completed by the end of August, then Senior Citizens and other groups that used the room may move back in.

Within the next three months, however, the seniors will be moved to another, more permanent meeting facility in the old Department of Public Works (DPW) building, Troutt added.

THE CITY COUNCIL has approved an $11,000 modification program for the building after it is vacated by the department in favor of a newer DPW building.

Troutt said the old building would be regulated by the recreation department, which governs activities of senior citizens, and anticipated that the seniors will be the major occupants of the facility.

"It's a substantial-sized building and I'm sure the Senior Citizens will be assigned to use it most of the time," he said.

Land clearing begins on site for city's urban renewal plan

Land-clearing processes have begun for Romulus' new $17 million urban renewal project in the Van Born-Wayne Road area.

Labeled the Wayne-Beverly Renewal Project Number

One, the project will include the building of 300 single-family homes, 180 multiple-family dwellings, a 3½-acre shopping center and park.

The new homes will join 101 public housing units currently existing at the location, bounded by Howe, Chamberlain, Van Born and Beverly roads.

The $17 million breaks down into $5 million for clearing and improving the site and $12 million in actual development costs, Wilhelm said.

He added that the federal government will foot ¾ of land-clearing costs and that the city's share of the costs will be approximately $300,000. The $12 million development costs will come from private developers.

The new subdivision has been on the drawing board since 1971.

FORD

During his political career

Vice-president prepares for his moves up

By BUD VESTAL

Editor's note: What kind of president would Jerry Ford make. There's no answer to that question, about Ford or anyone else, but his long record provides many a clue, detailed here in the final chapter of "Jerry Ford, Up Close."

"I am the first Eagle Scout vice-president of the United States," Jerry Ford said with pride, as much in having been an Eagle Scout in Grand Rapids high school days as in becoming the first vice-president by nomination to Congress.

The remark came in a revealing disquisition by Jerry Ford on his career.

Ford, on taking national office, was hailed by the national media as a real Midwest square—anything but astute. He was politician enough to see the advantage in this and realist enough to accept what basis it had. And not to apologize for it.

"IT DIDN'T BOTHER me at all, really," Ford said. "Because in the first place I didn't think it was true and I don't think there's anything wrong with being typically Midwestern. I heard a commentator say, or I would read what one had written, that I was 'plodding,' or 'dull' or 'noncharismatic.'"

"My answer on a television interview was I'd rather be plodding and get something done than have charisma and accomplish nothing, which is about the best summary I could give."

Was that part of his political philosophy? Definitely yes.

"I've always believed that you take a political job, or get one, you do it; you get another assignment, you do it. And if the ball bounces your way or you get a break, you're prepared for the next assignment, and in the process you've earned the opportunity to qualify."

"SO I DON'T HAVE any hesitancy in standing up for a person who does a job. If he does it well, he merits consideration for the next job."

The act of preparation for the next rung up the ladder was not accidental?

"I never neglected an opportunity to be prepared for the next step," he added. "Put it that way."

If the vice-president would tolerate a hypothetical question, what would have to happen before he lost that great loyalty to the President? There was a pause.

"THE PRESIDENT has assured me personally — not once but a number of times — that he had no prior knowledge of Watergate, no involvement in the coverup, and I fully believe it. I suppose any evidence that undercut that personal assurance really would be about as disappointing as I could imagine."

Aide Robert Hartmann had put it more succinctly, he said: "If Ford ever became convinced anyone lied to him, it would be terminal."

Ford himself had nothing whatsoever to lose by his loyalty to Nixon. As long as he believed Nixon, and he gave every sign of believing, he could do what he told innumerable newsmen he wanted: he could be vice-president.

Should the king fall by hands of others, President Gerald R. Ford would not have to answer to any man.

FORD INSISTED HE was sincere in saying he had no intention of seeking the presidential nomination of his party.

He noted he would be 63 at the end of 1976, with "two children through college and the others halfway." "We will have the means, and hopefully the health, to do some things I missed out on," he said. "I have not gone as far as to say what Sherman did, neither campaign, nor serve if elected."

"I don't think I should, but I am sincere in saying I have no intention of being a candidate in 1976. It explains why I can be more frank. Why I can be critical one day and supportive the next day, of the President. Because I am not trying to curry favor for a political base in 1976."

Ford had other things to say in interviews totaling more than three hours.

On the subject of foreign policy Ford said: "The nation wants no more Vietnam," but if Saigon should appear in danger of falling he would not rule out a resumption of the bombing of North Vietnam.

"YOU HAVE TO KEEP your options open," he added.

If he had been President, would Ford have sought to reestablish relations with Red China?

"No, not with my record of 23 years' opposition," Ford said. "I probably would have been reluctant. But I approve of the policy, and I would hope when the time came, I would have been flexible enough to listen to reasons advanced by a person such as Kissinger... (Secretary of State Henry)."

"Had I been given the arguments I am sure Kissinger gave, I hope my previous unbending policy might have been flexible."

HE AGREED THE PACE of history — particularly its bad news — seemed to be accelerating, but this did not mean life in the United States had not been good, could not be good in backing, made it possible for a tremendous gain with a negotiated settlement between Egypt and Israel.

Ford conceded there had been many shocks to the nation's consciousness: inflation, a fuel crisis, "Watergate and all its ramifications."

What "ramifications," for instance?

Well, ITT for one. The "milk funds" for another. He felt: "They would not have been investigated, or investigated as thoroughly, had it not been for the Watergate burglary."

SHOULD THEY have been investigated?

"Yes," he said.

If Ford could do just one thing for the American people, one only but the choice his, what would he choose? He thought about it a long time.

"As I look at the nation's problems, anything I could do to restore public credibility and faith in our government," he said. "Why do I pick that? Because if the American people have full and strong faith in their government, it gives the leaders of our government bigger clout both at home and abroad."

"Now I don't mean to say that because our President's popularity is low today, he can't solve the Middle East controversy, because the evidence is his appointee, with his... BUT GENERALLY I think you can say if the American people believe in their leaders, believe in the government, the system, it makes it easier for whoever is running the country to achieve results."

In describing his role as he and the President had discussed it, he said: "The President wants me to be very active with the Congress and expects me to do a great deal of getting out and helping in the political arena."

"Everything I've been told from the outset has materialized. I see him anytime I want to. I talk to him anytime I want to. And if anything, it's been better than what I envisaged."

"It's different than what a lot of people thought was the case. People have been disappointed with what vice-presidents have been told they could do. In my case I'm pleased and optimistic."

BUT WAS A "STRONG" vice-president, a vice-president who marched to his own drum, possible in the American system? No observer of the American system thought so.

What kind of President would Jerry Ford be? Fair to adequate, most likely. But it makes no sense to ask the question without also asking: What would be his inheritance? To whom is he to be compared? Every new President finds himself guided and shaped not only by his own beliefs and plans, but first by the commitments of his predecessor.

Truman presided over the dawn of the atomic era, although he hadn't known what an atom bomb was when he took the oath of office. Eisenhower had to end Truman's war in Korea. Kennedy had to decide on an invasion of Cuba set in train before his presidency; Johnson found himself with commitments to aid Vietnam, give full equality to the nation's blacks and save the big cities; Nixon inherited a war in Vietnam, creeping inflation and a cold war with the Communist world. What kind of legacy was Nixon shaping?

Ominous. Nixon's State of the Union message to Congress and to the people via television the last of January 1974, was totally unrealistic. The guts of it were not even in the text. That he was not going to resign, that he would serve out his term, and that "one year of Watergate is enough."

HIS FAMILY IN the gallery led a feeble ovation that looked better on TV than it was in actuality.

Vice-president Ford sat behind and above Nixon at the lectern, unaware that he was just as visible to the millions watching television as the President was. There was a grim, concerned look on his face that did not change throughout the 47 minute speech.

Nixon promised "no recession," although everybody knew one was just around the corner. The President's own economic message two days later pointed to a recession plus inflation.

While the worst was yet to come for millions of Americans, the price inflation already was disastrous for the urban poor, the elderly on Social Security or small pensions, working women who headed families and, of course, the majority of the big-city blacks.

NIXON'S "POLLYANNAESQUE" State of the Union message drew ironic response from working men and women as well as from independent economists and syndicated columnists. If he had any credibility left, that message finished it. A majority of the Congress sat glowering and did not applaud. Perhaps that was why Ford had looked so glum.

The United States was in a bad way.

By what logic did the detractors of Jerry Ford's intelligence think he could do worse than Johnson or Nixon? If he just sat in the White House and let Kissinger coddle the Arabs and Israelis, delegated economic policy to competent and honest men, told the truth to the people and raised taxes on economic fat cats, he could become a folk hero.

Timing would be important of course. If Ford took over early, with almost three years to go and the worst of the economic chickens coming home to roost, then he might by 1976 be another Herbert Hoover — in spite of anything he could do about it. He could not — and by temperament would not — junk Nixon's policies overnight.

FORD GENUINELY had no ambition to be President. He would have been a fool not to realize he was closer to it than most vice-presidents, and imprudent if he did not prepare himself for the eventuality. But being prepared was the hallmark of Ford's life.

Ford had made it clear that he would retain Secretary of State Kissinger and the foreign policy Kissinger was trying to execute. That he also would continue the detente with Russia and the exploration of normal relations with China. He talked of "flexibility," as if it were a newly discovered asset.

When it came to markets and money matters, Ford would have to depend on wise and expert advisers. He knew next to nothing about commodity-futures markets, the intricacies of the farm economy, nor the jungle of the petroleum world.

Ford, the perennial hawk, would continue big military budgets. And he would not hesitate to call a Russian bluff — or fight if he became convinced the time had come to fight or surrender.

ONE FEARS FORD might be even more conservative than Nixon on domestic social programs. He always distrusted the "giveaway" philosophy, as conservative Republicans called it. He would not knowingly let a sparrow starve, but big concepts such as a federally guaranteed personal minimum income just plain scared Jerry Ford.

He would listen to advisers, to experts in their own fields. Other people were Jerry Ford's books. He was a much more outgoing man than Nixon. And therefore, he would have a better sense of what was going on in the nation, what the people were thinking and saying.

But a babe in the woods he would not be. "Poor, dull, Jerry," as Alice Roosevelt Longworth called him, had been in Washington twenty-five years. And he had stayed clean. He, lacking the ambition of a Nixon — and the desire for money that Nixon displayed — could stand up to any monopoly and demand to investigate corporate looting. But he would always believe in a fair return on invested capital.

One could understand him believing and saying, as Coolidge had, that the business of America is business.

A FRIEND WHO KNEW Ford well for many years said: "How many intellectual Presidents have we had, anyway? Few. And it takes a great moment for a man to be great. No great moment has come to Jerry yet. It is yet obscure to us what his capacity for growth may be."

"He has a broad knowledge of federal government, broad as that of any man. He has no Bebe Rebozo peering over his shoulder. He has a sense of timing; he's lucky. He's so darned honest. Yet there is an inscrutability about Jerry: You think you know him, but there's always one layer of reserve between you and Jerry's inner self."

As President, Jerry Ford would have enormous political clout compared to the agonized Richard Nixon. So many would rush to put their hopes in him. If all he did was tell the truth, Ford would have the great majority of the voters hanging on his words. He would have — unless the Nixon legacy became too rancid — a honeymoon, however brief, in which to change some things. And, unlike Nixon, he would have friends in Congress.

Was it not possible in 1974 that the country was ready to trade some glory for stability, some brilliance and rhetoric for confidence? Possible that it was reaching for a man like Jerry Ford, who had spent a career readying himself to serve somebody else?

Many refuse to work

Candidate discussion 'frightful'

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of Enterprise-Roman Staff

It's a bit insightful, and somewhat frightful, to talk with some Western Wayne County candidates seeking public office on the county, state and national level.

Although there are many who are willing to place their names before the voters, it seems as though there are some who refuse to place any effort into studying the needs of their districts for the campaign.

One incumbent said: "The incumbent always has the advantage in the campaign because he has dealt with the issues for several years before he runs again."

BUT THEN, those same incumbents, the ones with the background, cannot or will not talk to the issues, but speak around them instead.

It's because challengers display a poorer understanding, not from lack of knowledge, but from lack of effort.

Said one challenger when contacted for an interview: "I hope you'll be easy on me, because I'm sure you understand the issues much more than me."

My answer was: "I shouldn't if you're going to hold the office."

HOPEFULLY the voters will see through his facade, and keep him out of office.

But then, the voters don't really know the issues themselves, and often rely on word of mouth or personalities to make a decision.

How many times have I heard: "I wouldn't vote for that guy, because he thinks he's big stuff."

Arrogance doesn't turn me on, but arrogance with knowledge earns more points on my score card than humility combined with a lack of knowledge.

IF IT WASN'T so serious, it would be amusing to analyze the facade each candidate places before the reporter in the interview room.

There's always the righteous warrior who talks about "my opponent's lack of integrity, or intelligence or knowledge; while his own qualities prove lacking."

At least this year there is a change.

No candidate is breast-beating and shouting louder on any one issue than the other.

TWO YEARS ago the candidate meetings were a bit disgusting because each candidate wanted himself rated on a scale of ten on the busing issue.

Although each was informed the newspaper wasn't interested in a county commissioner's or state representative's stand on busing, the candidate would beat his breast at every opportunity to inform the paper how tough he was against it.

The paper's philosophy was, if everyone's against it, what's to give the voters a choice?

And the answer was "the real issues"—which turned out to be the real matters few candidates wish to deal with.

An incumbent runs on his sheltered record each year. He has an explanation for each vote, and if he's not questioned on it, even the lamest is never brought to public.

It happens because the challengers want to talk about topics which take little effort to understand and can be discussed in hundreds of different ways with the same message.

Every candidate is against big government, against inflation and for the little man.

But few can say how they will stop big government, how they will cope with inflation and how they will help the little man.

It's because they need time, and effort, to develop a plan of attack, and few are willing to take it.

The next logical step in this story may be to name names of candidates who falter in their thinking and to praise those who don't.

But then, does the newspaper perform a service?

I could determine who I would vote for and who I would vote against based on conversations I've had with the candidates.

Most of their logic or illogic has been recorded in the news columns.

And now, it's up to the voters to sort the statements out before they go to the polls.

Separate the wheat from the chaff was the way the Bible put it.

It's unfortunate, but in many instances, the candidate who receives the support at the polls will be the one who appears to be the "lesser of two evils" rather than the one with the most quality.

And it's the fault of the voter, because the voters refuse to choose quality and allow people of little quality to sneak by them in times of weakness.

I refuse to lump myself into the category with the rest of the voters, because I attempt to stay on top of the issues.

Resignation an 'option'

By TOM BRADEN
Eagle Special Columnist

One senses here the calm before the storm. Mr. Nixon has made much of the crises in his life, and much of the fact that he has surmounted them by action. He now must be thinking that this is the greatest crisis of all.

The question of what action he will take to meet it may be as important to the rest of us as it is to him.

It is not in Mr. Nixon's character to take no action. This present pose — the lonely arrival and departure from the airport, the silent hailing up in the Oval Office, the patient bearing of outrageous fortune — it cannot last. He will come out raging. The question is how.

SOME PEOPLE think that resignation for the first time seriously is being considered as an "option," to use one of Mr. Nixon's favorite words.

They think the President misread his situation while he was in California and they cite the statements of presidential aides Ron Ziegler and Dean Burch as evidence for their view.

Only a man who didn't quite understand how far the deliberative process had gone, they argue, could have permitted his aides to pose such epithets as "kangaroo court" and "hired gunmen" to the calm and gentle reasoning of the House Judiciary Committee.

Now that he is back in Washington, so say the believers in the resignation option, Mr. Nixon will understand readily that the impeachment process has gained momentum, that he has little chance to win in the House and that conviction in the Senate no longer seems improbable.

UP TO NOW, the President's aides have been counting on Southern Democrats to join conservative Republicans in unimpeachable solidarity. But the vote in the House committee makes that outcome seem less sure.

If the certified conservative James Mann (D-S.C.) can come down eloquently on the side of impeachment, who is to be so sure that Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.) — once he has similarly studied Resignation, it is argued, would give Mr. Nixon some proof against obloquy — perhaps also against further revelations of misconduct — and a platform in retirement as one who had been wronged.

Leaflet surveys state lakes

The new edition of the "Guide to Fun in Michigan" has been published by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

The multicolor publication contains detailed maps of the state's 83 counties, showing the latest roads and highways, hiking trails and canoe routes, lakes and streams, water access sites, ski areas, plus towns, villages and cities.

The guide also features fishing spots as well as providing information on camping, snowmobile trails. It is invaluable to hunters, fishermen and all outdoor enthusiasts.

The book is available for $5.95 postpaid from Michigan Out-of-Doors, Box 2235, Lansing, 48911. Each order placed before Oct. 17 also will include a free copy of the "Michigan Mapped Lakes Index."

Planners to set hearing on family medical center

The Sumpter Township Planning Commission has scheduled a public hearing on the proposed rezoning of a 10-acre land parcel to allow the construction of a permanent family medical center in the township.

The public hearing will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 4 at the township hall, 23483 Sumpter Rd.

The land parcel, currently zoned for single-family and rural community homes, is located on Sumpter Road between Willis and Harris roads. The township is seeking a change to general business classification.

THE CONSTRUCTION of the permanent family medical center is to be financed by a Kresge Foundation grant of $225,000, received by Oakwood General Hospital of Dearborn, operators of the present Sumpter Family Practice Center, housed in two connecting mobile homes at 24560 Sumpter Rd.

The grant will enable the hospital to house the mobile home facilities in new and larger quarters.

The proposed new center will be a 1-story structure. It will provide 5,800 square feet of space for examinations and treatment of ambulatory patients.

The new facility will also have 21 examination and consultation rooms, and will provide no patient beds.

Construction of the center, if rezoning is approved, will be completed by early 1975.

Delinquency rate on loans decline for camper homes

Delinquency rates for recreational vehicle (RV) loans declined more than any of the eight other major categories of consumer loans during the last two months for which figures were available, Feb. 28 through April 30, according to statistics issued by the American Bankers' Association.

Only RV and Title I loans showed declines in delinquency rates in the two months preceding the reporting period.

Officials said the low rate of RV loan delinquency and repossession could be due to the maturity of the average buyer, his average income and his regard for the vehicle.

Marketing firm's man is first board chairman

Three major promotions have been announced by Barden-Durst Inc., a Lansing-based marketing-communications advertising agency.

Appointed to the position of chairman of the board of directors and chief executive officer was Gerald L. Barden, 40, who co-founded the corporation in 1961.

With the new appointment, Barden becomes the firm's first board chairman. He lives in DeWitt Township with his wife, Dorothy, and their two children.

Sam M. Misaleides was named president of the company. An Ohio State University graduate, he is 39 years old and has an extensive agency background covering 16 years with several nationally-known advertising firms.

Misaleides lives with his wife, Yvonne, and four children in Williamston.

Robert R. Reed, 31, creative director, was named vice-president of the company. Reed, an Eastern Michigan University graduate, worked in the Ann Arbor and Detroit area prior to joining Barden-Durst. He also lives with his family in Williamston.

Sheriff charges five men

Wayne County Sheriff's Patrol officers arrested one Romulus man and three Westland men on charges of being drunk and disorderly at Huron Township's Liberty Park.

According to sheriff's deputies, officers were called to the park on Bredow Road between Inkster and Middle Belt recently in answer to a disturbance complaint.

They discovered a crowd of 400-600 persons, many of whom were unruly, deputies said. The officers requested a back-up and were assisted by four other Sheriff's patrol cars, a state police cruiser and a car from the Huron Township force.

Police said five men were arrested when the officers attempted to disperse the crowd.

Retired couple plan to travel

It's retirement time for Bernard and Margaret Bird of Hannan Road, Romulus. The two are looking forward to some travel and relaxation in the immediate future.

Mrs. Bird is leaving the field of education and her husband is retiring from the Ford Motor Company.

Principal of Romulus Elementary School for the past 12 years, Mrs. Bird served for many years as a classroom teacher.

She was recently honored at a reception sponsored by the school staff and P.T.A. in the multi-purpose room of the school. Among the 200 guests attending were former colleagues, parents, friends and relatives.

Mrs. Beverly McAnally, Romulus Mayor Pro-tem, and Carol Morris of the Romulus Board of Education each gave a short honorary speech. Musical selection were played by former Romulus Elementary students, Mr. and Mrs. La Terry Butler and Tondra and Maria Wilson.

Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Marilyn Vaughn, Mrs. Jean Moody, Mrs. Sally Nieman, Mrs. Gloria Chandler and Mrs. Mary Ann Christensen.

Bird, having worked for Ford's in various positions for the past 39 years, was honored by fellow office members at the Satellite Lounge in Dearborn.

MR. AND MRS. BERNARD L. BIRD

Marie Bowden named to head National BPW

Reaffirming the commitment of her 170,000 members to equality under the law for all persons, Marie B. Bowden, a hospital controller from Leesburg, Fla., became President of the Business and Professional Women (BPW), one of the nation's oldest and largest women's organizations, in Chicago's Conrad Hilton Hotel. Calling ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment the "number one priority" for 1974-75, Mrs. Bowden pledged that her members would "exert every effort necessary until ERA has been ratified by 38 states."

Installed as president before the 3,000 delegates to the BPW National Convention on the last evening of the July 21-25 meeting, Mrs. Bowden spoke of the dedication of business and professional women throughout the United States to the ratification campaign. "We do not intend to let up until the job is done," she maintained, pointing with pride to the $251,091 ERA Ratification Fund established this year by BPW members through voluntary contributions.

Mrs. Bowden pledged to "make an in-depth study of the states which have not yet ratified" and to tailor her organization's effort to the findings of that study. "We ask no special favors," she insisted. "We ask only that legislators charged with the responsibility of passing appropriate laws for all of their people study the facts relative to ERA, for we are certain that the facts will require their vote in favor of ratification."

COMPTROLLER of Leesburg General Hospital in Leesburg, Fla., Marie Bowden becomes BPW's President after an organizational career devoted to educational interests and international pursuits. She has been influential in BPW's hemispheric friendship program and has helped to develop the organization's three conferences for the women of the Americas. The third conference is being held in Mexico City in February, 1975, during Mrs. Bowden's presidency.

A strong supporter of her organization's educational programs for women, Mrs. Bowden will serve as President of the Board of Trustees of the Business and Professional Women's Foundation. She also holds a gubernatorial appointment to the Board of Trustees of Lake-Sumpter Community College in Florida, which she has served as Chairman since 1971.

Active also in her community, Mrs. Bowden was the first woman to serve as president of the Leesburg Chamber of Commerce. She serves on the board of the Crisis Intervention Center, Inc. and is active in many other civic and philanthropic groups.

Delegates from the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club were Helen White and Bea Boldt who arrived home July 26.

TWO DAYS later the Belleville club was informed of the sudden death of Harriet Myer, 44, the immediate past state president of BPW. Miss Myer has been at the convention, conducted several workshops and has been appointed national program chairman for the ensuing year.

Mother, daughter off to Germany for month

By Mrs. Joseph Spring 699-4021
Mrs. Julianna Lochli of Haggerty Road and her daughter, Mrs. Rosemary Wells of Chicago, left by plane last week for Germany where they will spend the month of August visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Maki of Bryn Mawr, Pa., arrived in Belleville July 27 to spend some time with their parents, the George Makis of Quirk Road and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Phillips of Kozma Road.

While here the junior Mrs. Maki attended the annual convention of the American Bar Association held in Chicago, August 1-4. She was the law student division representative of the American Bar Association from the Villanova University law school in Villanova, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon J. Boldt of Roland Street, Belleville, attended funeral services July 20 at the Jenkins Funeral Home in Union City for Lyle Cubberley of Burlington, brother-in-law of Mrs. Boldt, who passed away suddenly July 16 at 67 years of age.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Leitchhinder of Butler, Ind. were guests last week Wednesday and Thursday of Belleville friends, Mrs. Juanita Akers of Liberty Street and Mrs. Elda Bohl of Robson Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Barry Nobles with daughters, Jennifer and Holly, from Greenville, Mich. were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kidwell of Elton Drive last week.

Mrs. Ted Luper of Karr Road attended a reunion of the "Breakfast Group," students of Manchester College at North Manchester, Ind. on July 24 and 25. The seven members present, who met at the home of Miss Ruth Harris in Granger, Ind., enjoyed a social time together.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Potts of Wabash Street were guests last week of the Tim Potts and Ed Szmanski families who are vacationing at Lake James.

Former Elwell Road residents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wiggett, now of Phoenix, Ariz., have been visiting relatives and friends in and about the Belleville community for the past several weeks.

Guests of a former Liberty Street resident, Mrs. Ruth Shoup (now of Lake LeAnn) last Wednesday were friends, Velma Kulzer, Margaret Saunders, Dorothy Westergard and Muriel Bearance, all former neighbors.

Mrs. Elda Bohl with grandchildren, Susan Griffin of Robson Road, and Tom Griffin of Farmington, were recent dinner guests of the former's cousin, Miss Mabel Soop of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Boldt of Roland Street were among those who attended the 75th reunion of the Wittkop family held at the cottage of the former's sister, Mrs. Ernest Berendt, at Evans Lake July 28.

In celebration of her 18th birthday, Linda Maki's family journeyed to Paris, Mich. last Wednesday to enjoy a few days. Meeting them there were Linda's grandmother, Mrs. Fay Domenget, and an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rundblom, all of Des Plaines, Ill. and Mrs. Sally De Lorto of Hickory Corners, Ill.

Rent a New Way of Living...
Not Just a New Address

We think apartment life should offer a whole lot more than walk-in closets and shag carpeting—a lot more!

It should be down-right fun. If you want to come home after a hectic day and shut out the world, fine. But the point is, you shouldn't be forced to settle for the dull and humdrum.

Spark your life with a late-evening frolic in our huge pool. Work out in our Exercise Room. Enjoy the Sauna. Play golf. Dance. Play table tennis. Shoot pool. Come to the Flea Market. Go to the Art Auction. Attend a Bar-B-Q Party. Be a member of our T.G.I.F. Club. But get in to the "good life". The kind of adult life that awaits you at the Village Green of Belleville.

See our all-comfort-designed 1 and 2 bedroom apartment homes. Furnished models for your inspection 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily; 9 to 5 Saturday; 1 to 5 Sunday. Rentals from $170.

Come out today. Rent a New Way of Living.

Kiwanis International elects new officers

A Chicago resident, Roy W. Davis, has been elected President of Kiwanis International, according to Earl Lamb, president of the Romulus Kiwanis Club.

Davis, as international president, will be the spokesman for the service organization's 276,000 members in 6,315 clubs throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico and 42 other countries in Europe, Central and South America, the Caribbean, the Far East and Southwest Pacific.

He succeeds William M. Eagles, M.D., of Richmond, Va., who held the position since Oct. 1, 1973.

Other new officers and trustees elected at the convention were: Ted R. Osborn of the Blue Grass, Lexington, Ky., president-elect;

James C. Brooks of the Capital City Raleigh, N.C., and Maurice Gladman of Santa Ana, Calif., vice-presidents; and Stanley E. Schneider, Crestline, Ohio, treasurer.

Elected to 2-year terms as international trustees were: Paul Chandler of Huntington, W. Va.; Stephen H. Hart Jr. of Irvington, N.Y.; Ralph C. Keyes of Ann Arbor, Mich.; E.B. McKittrick of Edmonton-Oil Capital, Alberta; Carl F. Miller of Sunshine Tuscon, Ariz.; and Douglas Wasson of the Rampart Range, Colorado Spring, Colo.

Veterans utilize GI Bill benefits for study

Increasing numbers of veterans, servicemen, dependents and survivors are studying outside the United States under the GI Bill and other Veterans Administration (VA) programs, according to the agency's preliminary statistics.

A total of 55,000 persons trained abroad in fiscal year 1973 under the GI Bill and the Dependents' Educational Assistance (DEA) programs. This is a 77 percent hike over the previous year.

When final statistics are in, officials expect fiscal 1974 enrollments to reach 65,000. Currently, eligible persons may train in VA-approved courses at any of more than 800 schools in 60 countries.

AMONG THE 55,000 students were 19,500 veterans, 30,000 servicemen and 5,500 dependents and survivors of dependents.

Most of the servicemen studied under the agency's Predischarge Education Program (PREP) which allows servicemen to take, without loss of basic entitlement, courses needed to qualify for higher education.

Training outside the United States has been available to veterans and servicemen since the World War II original GI Bill was enacted, but the benefit was extended in October 1972, to eligible wives, husbands, widows, widowers and children under the DEA program.

VA officials stressed that — except for servicemen in PREP — training abroad must be in institutions of higher learning.

Local residents enlist in the armed forces

The lure of foreign lands has attracted several residents from the Belleville-Romulus area into the armed forces.

Serving tours of duty with the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines are:

Navy Airman Terry M. Dyer, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Dyer of 23785 Bredow, and husband of the former Sharon E. Lockhart of 20040 W. Point, all of Romulus, returned recently to his hometown of San Diego from a 7½ month deployment aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk. He and his shipmates participated in exercises with units of the Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific and Indian Ocean. During the cruise, Dyer visited Manila, R.P., Singapore, Hong Kong and Mombasa, Kenya.

Private Kenneth J. Cavill, 17, the son of Mrs. Audrey M. Guenther of 15910 Orchard, Romulus, recently completed eight weeks of basic training at the U.S. Army Training Center, Armor, Ft. Knox, Ky. He received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, combat tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and army history and traditions.

Navy Seaman Recruit Blaine D. Shattuck, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant B. Shattuck of 600-59 Sumpter, Belleville, is undergoing recruit training at Great Lakes, Ill., as a member of the 10th annual "Tiger Company" from Michigan. He was sworn into the Navy in a special ceremony at Detroit Tiger Stadium July 18.

During his nine weeks of basic training, Shattuck will receive instruction in seamanship, marksmanship, fire fighting, close order drill, first aid and Naval history.

He is a 1974 graduate of Belleville High School.

Navy Hospitalman Recruit Karen L. Raker, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Raker of 17340 Wahrman Road, Romulus, recently graduated July 16 from recruit training for women at the Naval Training Center, Orlando, Fla.

Navyman Edward D. Ladd II, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Ladd of 47195 McBride, Belleville, has graduated from recruit training at the Naval Training Center in Great Lakes, Ill.

He received nine weeks of intensive instruction in seamanship, small arms training, fire fighting, close order drill, first aid and Naval history.

Navy Fireman Recruit Ronald E. Dorris, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Dorris of 45801 Harris Rd., Belleville, has graduated from recruit training at the Naval Training Center in Great Lakes, Ill.

He received nine weeks of intensive instruction in seamanship, small arms training, fire fighting, close order drill, first aid and Naval history.

EDWARD D. LADD
Navy Chief Radioman John E. Salyers, the son of Mrs. Mildred L. Salyers of 8369

RONALD E. DORRIS
Kempa St., Romulus, has left his hometown of Portland, Ore., aboard the destroyer

USS Rogers for a reserve summer training cruise. He and his shipmates will sail to Hawaii where they will undergo an operational readiness inspection. During the inspection, Salyers and the other men will be tested and evaluated on their performance during simulated combat situations.

Navy Storekeeper 2.C. Robert J. Clark, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell J. Clark of 17043 Martinsville Rd., Belleville, has returned to his hometown of San Diego from a 7½ month deployment aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk. He and his shipmates participated in exercises with units of the Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific and Indian Ocean. During the cruise, Clark visited Manila, R.P., Singapore, Hong Kong and Mombasa, Kenya.

Two Romulus residents were recently awarded an all expense-paid 3-day trip to Chicago as part of an elite group of managers who met specific recruiting goals in a 3-month campaign for Beeline Fashions, Inc.

The world's largest merchandiser of women's apparel through in-home fashion shows, Beeline welcomed the group of 300 managers — including Karen and Robert Scott of Romulus — on the lawn of the company's headquarters in Chicago before attending a Roaring '20s party and several other events during the trip.

The highlight of the trip for Mrs. Scott was the presentation of a golden sapphire ring to her for her recruiting work in the company's campaign.

broilers

The annual chicken broil and festival sponsored by St. Joseph's Church in Whittaker will be held Aug. 25.

The festival will have something new this year with a dance to be held from 8 p.m. to midnight on the east end of the parking lot. Music will be by "The Statemen." There also will be refreshments.

Tickets for the annual chicken broil and festival are $2.50 for adults and $2 for children.

Officers get new vehicle

A specially-built police patrol car recently was added to Van Buren Township Police Department's road patrol and law enforcement programs.

The township's police now have three patrol vehicles all purchased within the last two years.

Van Buren Police Commissioner Dominick W. Blend said the police cars are built to rigid specifications which have been drawn up by the police department.

The cars are designed to do the best possible job on the road in serving the public as well as providing excellent safety transportation for police personnel.

Check coolant

The radiator cap and coolant level in the family auto need more attention in hot weather than in cold, according to car care experts at Boron Oil Co. The filler cap must be rated at the correct pressure for the car. If the spring and gasket have rusted or deteriorated, the cap should be replaced.

Sheriff appoints 'Adonis' to head youth project

A Wayne County Sheriff's deputy, named Mr. Michigan of 1974, will be assigned to the City of Romulus for full-time duty in a program aimed at helping to guide young people.

Sheriff William Lucas responded positively to a request from Romulus Mayor Terry Troutt to place Deputy William Chapoton in charge of a 1-man Youth Service Bureau under the terms of a new contract with the sheriff's department providing services for the city.

Chapoton, 33, a Detroit resident who is married and the father of two, joined the sheriff's department in 1966 and recently was assigned to road patrol in Western Wayne County.

HIS DUTIES have included instructing candidates for deputy and local police officer assignments in physical fitness.

Several months ago, as a part-time volunteer, he began to help Romulus boys who were interested in the techniques of body-building.

This activity sparked Mayor Troutt's interest and led him to ask Lucas to assign Chapoton to full-time service in Romulus.

Chapoton said he "fooled around" with body-building as a youngster, then began about five years ago to "take it seriously."

He customarily trains at his northwest Detroit home in a heated, insulated garage for as much as three or four hours each day, six days a week.

But Chapoton said he has altered that routine this summer to strengthen his abilities in powerlifting.

"I hope to go to San Francisco in late August to compete in this event in the first International Police Olympics," he said.

"The Deputy Sheriff's Association provided me with $700 in expense money earlier this year and I utilized $350 of it to compete in the Mr.

America contest in June in York, Pa.

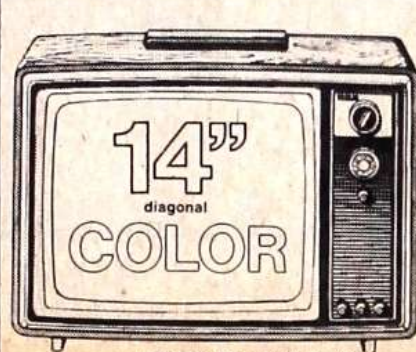

"Now I have to somehow come up with about $350 more to make it to San Francisco, stay there for a week and return."

Sheriff Lucas promised to seek support for Chapoton's venture from private sources.

Besides winning the Mr. Michigan contest this year, Chapoton last year won three physique contests — Mr. Apollo, Mr. Southeastern Michigan and Mr. Midwest.

He also placed second in three contests — Junior Mr. Michigan, Senior Mr. Michigan and Mr. Iron Man. In each, he won first place for "best arms."

Ed bill limits busing by court

By TOM OCHILTREE
Enterprise-Roman
Washington Bureau Chief

Congress has completed action on a massive $25.2 million federal aid to education bill which limits to some extent the right of courts to order busing of school children.

By a vote of 323-83 the House last week accepted a conference committee report earlier approved by the Senate and sent the measure to President Nixon for either his signature making the bill law or his veto.

Enactment of the measure into law now is regarded as a certainty.

COUPLED WITH the recent Supreme Court decision banning almost all busing across jurisdictional lines, the Congressional action clearly has removed the emotional busing issue from a central position in the political arena which it has occupied for the past few years.

In the final version of the education bill, the strict anti-busing provisions sought by a majority of the House were watered down by the Senate conferees.

Rep. Marvin Esch (R-Mich.), Rep. William D. Ford (D-Mich.), and other strong opponents of the anti-busing provisions of the legislation largely have been nullified. They urged that the measure be sent back to conference but they debated their case with little fire.

The Supreme Court decision on the greater Detroit metropolitan area case clearly has calmed a lot of tempers. Also there was a wide-spread feeling that large numbers of black and white parents alike in various parts of the country were relieved that the whole busing concept of attaining racial balance in classrooms seemed to be fading.

REP. CARL D. PERKINS (D-Ken.), chairman of the House Education Committee, effectively urged House approval of the conference committee reports. He said: "We have brought to this chamber the best possible bill attainable. There are more anti-busing provisions in this bill than you have ever had before from Congress."

The giant education bill provides funding for the next four years for a whole spectrum of federal educational programs — money, which practically every school district in the country is counting on.

That was one over-riding reason that House members found it difficult to vote against the conference report.

DURING THE debate Perkins warned that if the conference report was rejected, federal funding for elementary and secondary education would have to be done through continuing resolution and localities could expect to lose money under that arrangement.

The approved bill would prohibit the busing of pupils to schools further than the nearest or next nearest to their homes.

An exception could be made, however, when a federal court found busing was the only available remedy to protect minority student's Constitutional rights of equal protection under the law. The original Esch amendment, which the majority of the House wanted, contained a reopening clause which would have allowed for review of busing cases already ordered by federal courts and implemented. Most of these are in the South.

THE MODIFIED bill as finally passed contained no such reopening clause. The Senate conferees were particularly firm that it be stricken out.

Perkins was joined in his plea by Rep. Albert H. Quie (R-Minn.) the ranking minority member of the committee.

Quie told House members that "failure to enact this compromise measure, would bring chaos" to the public school systems of the nation.

Huron to hold adult education

The Huron School District will offer 10 adult education program courses to veterans in the fall.

Veterans who served between the years of 1955 and 1974 are eligible for up to $231 in veterans benefits.

Veterans who do not qualify for the education bill will be able to take any class in the district free of charge. High school completion credit also is offered.

The adult education classes to be offered are industrial wiring, electric wiring, blueprint reading, real estate, home maintenance, carpentry, auto bumping and painting, cabinet making, plumbing and masonry.

5 get raffle gifts

Five Romulus residents were among the seven winners in the Romulus softball League's "Light the Way" drawing recently.

Andrew Lopota of Romulus won the grand prize of $200, while Louis Varrico, Mel Rakotz, Ellis Pennington and Robert Lee, all of Romulus, each won $50.

Two others, Mike O'Boyle of Ypsilanti and Alvo Vitale of Sterling Heights won $50 apiece.

Test aids IRS cases

Persons who are neither certified public accountants nor accredited attorneys may represent clients before the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) if they take a special enrollment examination.

The examination will be given in Detroit at 9 a.m. on Sept. 23 and 24 for Michigan applicants.

Anyone needing an application or more information about the examination should contact the IRS office in Detroit, 313-226-6231.

Gimmickry invades business

The Better Business Bureau (BBB) Metropolitan Detroit is warning area residents to be on the lookout for a salesman working the area and selling magazine subscriptions based on a sympathy appeal.

Area consumers have reported being approached by a salesman who reportedly is working for National Addict Tourism. According to his pitch, it is a program in which former addicts tour the country seeking votes to testify that the addict is reformed.

In fact, he says, if the addict gets 20,000 votes he will receive a $1,000 award as well as a good recommendation for future jobs.

If the homeowner claims he can't afford the magazine, one of the oldest lines in the world is reportedly used by the salesman: "If all I wanted was your money, I would have come with a shotgun, and a wheelbarrow to carry it away."

The BBB has attempted to contact the group working the area and inform them of this practice being used by at least one of the crew, but has been unable to do so.

The Bureau asked homeowners that are approached by a salesman claiming to represent National Addict Tourism, to contact the Bureau.

In Western Wayne County

County opens long-term center

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Enterprise-Roman Staff

The $11 million Walter P. Reuther Extended Care Facility on Wayne County General Hospital (WCGH) grounds in Westland has been opened officially with the transfer of 226 patients from the outmoded long-term care facility in "N" Building.

County officials and members of the press toured the modern 358-bed facility lying north of the WCGH last week to view the up-to-date services being offered by the county.

"This opening means the best of convalescent and nursing facilities now are available to any citizen in the county, regardless of income," said N. Frank Cylkowski, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Institutions. "The excellent personal care traditionally given to the county's extended-care patients now is matched by the finest of buildings and equipment." UNTIL THE OPENING of the $11 million facility, long-term care patients in Wayne County were housed in 60-bed wards in a more than 50-year-old building behind the hospital.

Workers and patients alike suffered with a lack of facilities geared to the special needs of long-term care patients, many of whom either were kept in a wheel chair or bed-ridden.

Patient Johnnie Hall summed up the feelings of the long-term care patients when she said: "I love it."

"This is just like home to me, after 14 years in the other building."

"IT'S A LOT easier to care for myself now with the special equipment placed in this building for persons such as me."

Mrs. Hall is confined to a wheel chair in the new care facility.

William Fobare, a patient in the long-term care facility for the past six months said: "It's as different as night and day."

"It's hard to get used to the luxury given patients here."

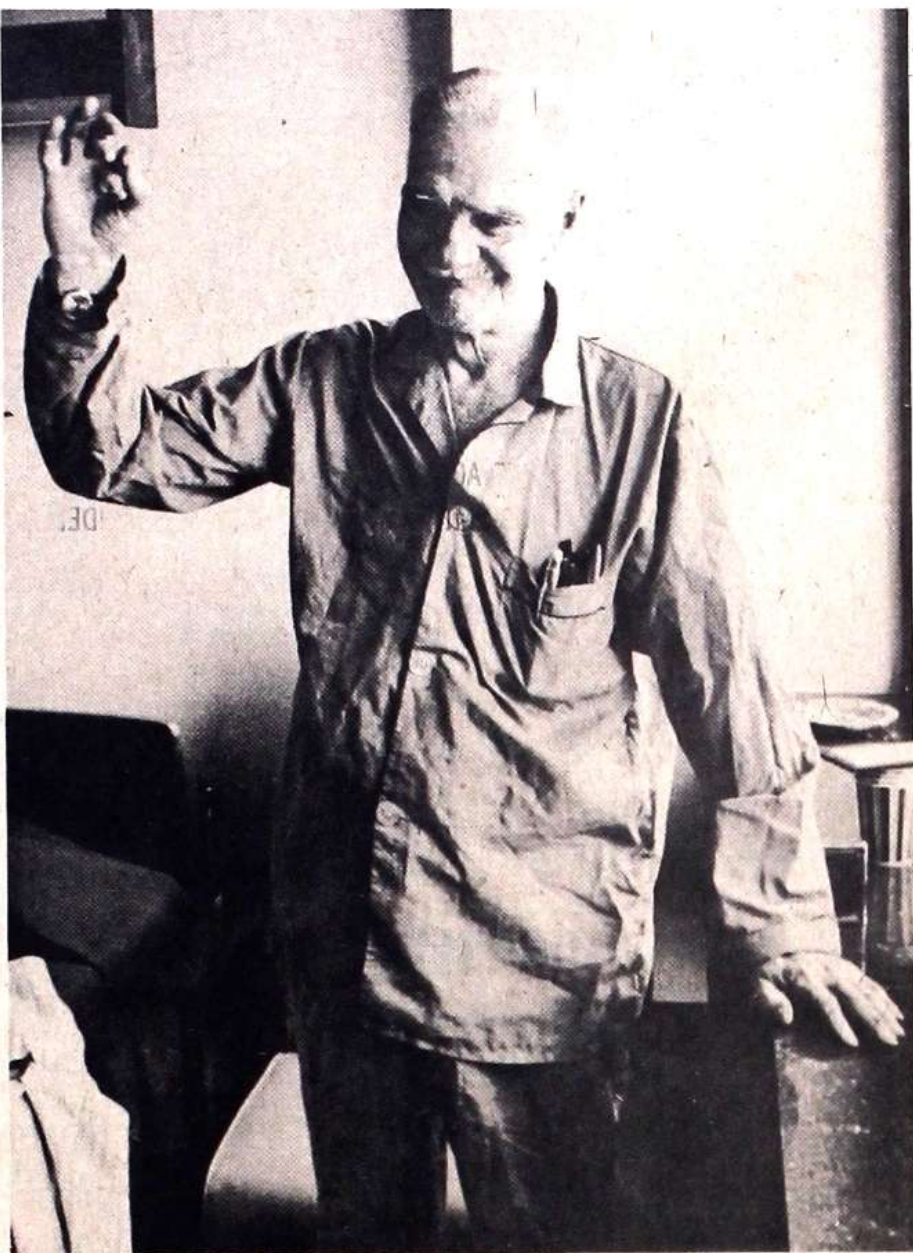

PATIENTS IN THE extended care program at the facility are placed in either 4-bed wards, semi-private 2-bedrooms or private rooms, depending on their income.

Included in the services offered them are toilet facilities suitable for patients confined to wheelchairs, shower and bath facilities for patients who are either able to stand with help, or who are totally invalid, and rehabilitation equipment.

All rooms on each of the six floors are connected to a central nurses station located in the center of each building, placing patients in the facility no farther than a touch of a button away from nursing help.

In the past, attendants had to be stationed in 60-bed wards to monitor the actions of patients.

NOW, THE STAFF of the hospital remains at the nurses station, offering patients a new degree of privacy.

WELCOME ABOARD — He nonchalantly leaned against a window ledge and offered a friendly wave to passer-by as local officials and members of the press toured the newly opened long-term care facility at Wayne

4-H Club requires paraders

Participants for the annual Wayne County 4-H Fair Parade are being sought to join in the festivities planned for 2 p.m. Aug. 11.

The theme of this year's parade will be "Anything goes," and parade organizers expressed the hope that float builders, car decorators, bands, clowns and horse groups will reflect it in their efforts.

Officials have set the route of the parade east on Columbia in Belleville, northwest on Main Street to Belleville Road, then to North Service Drive on to Quirk Road, finally ending at the fairgrounds.

Participants will organize at 1 p.m. Sunday at the Belleville High School parking lot for the parade which will serve as the kick-off for the county fair, to open Tuesday.

Those interested in taking part in the parade were asked to notify Mrs. Paul Kolver of 9008 Haggerty Road, Belleville 48111.

New law permits early tax refund

Persons eligible to receive property tax rebates soon will be able to apply for a $100 cash advance on their anticipated refund under a new decision rendered by the Michigan Legislature.

Senior citizens, the blind and disabled, veterans and widows of veterans who filed for a refund on their 1973 winter tax bill will be sent information on the new procedure on or after Aug. 1, officials said.

Previously, those eligible for refunds were billed for property taxes with their exemption already figured into the final total.

Under the new procedure, however, they will be billed for the full amount due, and will be permitted to apply for the $100 cash advance against what they anticipate to be their refund entitlement.

In the event that the $100 advance is in excess of the total refund due them, the difference will have to be paid back to the state.

An additional new procedure, recently approved in a joint resolution of the House and Senate, asks local municipalities to waive any interest charges accrued by tax payers eligible for a rebate who do not pay their bill before the Aug. 31 summer tax deadline.

Introducing FunMachine

It'll boggle your ears

The new Baldwin FunMachine is a musical invention that turns listeners into players. It is remarkably easy to play; yet as you learn to play it better you open an almost unlimited variety of opportunities for creative expression.

With just one finger of your left hand, the FunMachine automatically plays your choice of seventeen individual rhythms, from Old-Time Waltz to Soul Rock. These rhythm sections include a bass, guitar, piano or banjo, combined with a complete drum section.

Once your one finger gets the rhythm background going, you can play any of a wide variety of solo instrument sounds for the melody. In order to get your hand together, all you have to do is pick out the tune with one finger of the right hand.

Even if you've had no musical experience, you can coax some great sounds out of the FunMachine. Show yourself what FunMachine can do. No demonstration. You sit down and play this fantastic instrument. Why not bring your family along when you visit our showroom. It'll boggle their ears too.

County plans senior citizen centers

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has allocated $45,000 for the first of a possible network of multi-service senior citizens centers.

The money has been earmarked for renovation of a vacant, 3-story brick building on the grounds of Wayne County General Hospital in Westland.

County Commissioner Tom F. Taylor (D-Westland) had proposed the plan for the center.

TAYLOR, WHO HAD

presented the idea to federal officials in Washington, said he anticipated that federal and state grants would be received to help underwrite the estimated $100,000 annual operating cost.

The center will be housed in Building "J", which has 61,525 feet of usable space. The building has been vacant since the recent transfer of state mental patients to state hospitals.

The center will serve as the model which, if successful, will be the forerunner of a county-wide network as funds become available.

ANY SENIOR citizen residing in Wayne County will be welcome at the Westland center.

The location is in proximity of medical services at the hospital, where it is expanding and improving the out-patient department.

The center should be in operation later this year.

The center will have offices of a wide range of public and private agencies which serve senior citizens, plus indoor and outdoor recreation programs and social services. DAILY HOT lunches also are planned.

in interaction program

Interaction between handicapped and regular curriculum students is the purpose of a Summer Outdoor Education Program at Huron Junior High School in New Boston.

Twenty-five elementary students with emotional, physical and mental handicaps worked and played with 25 regular curriculum students throughout the six-week course, which ends Friday. Activities included arts and crafts, archery, swimming, canoeing and camp crafts.

"The activities helped develop psychomotor and cognitive skills in the children," explained program director Roger Kilponen.

Draft registrations in state
drop off in spring months

Draft registrations for the state fell off sharply during the spring months, according to a spokesman for Michigan headquarters of the Selective Service System.

The decline, logged in May and June, has been attributed to a lack of knowledge of a federal, requiring that all men, resident or alien, must register for the draft at age 18.

Failure to register is a violation of the law and may result in the young men being reported to the United States Attorney for possible prosecution.

Men can register for the draft by mail, if they find it difficult to visit a Selective Service office or registrar. Mail registration forms are available from poster displays located in post offices, banks, schools and recruiting offices.

If a mail-in card cannot be found, young men can call or write any Selective Service area office in Michigan and request the mail-in card.

The Selective Service area office for Western Wayne County is located in Livonia at 33210 Schoolcraft Rd.

The spokesman said the registration process can be completed within a matter of minutes and the service personnel will be available to assist with any problems.

Workers

Employees of the Abbey Inns of America Inc. of Romulus have turned down a bid to unionize.

The full time and regular part time employees of the Romulus establishment recently voted 124 against joining Local 1084 of the United Catering, Restaurant, Bar and Hotel Workers, AFL-CIO, in an election supervised by the Employment Relations Commission of the Michigan Department of Labor.

Romulus schools seek purchasers

The Romulus Community School District is seeking bid proposals on the sale of two range appliances and five trucks.

Bids must be submitted on or before 4:30 p.m. Aug. 12 on forms available at the board of education offices at 36540 Grant Rd., Romulus.

Up for sale by the school district are an electric Westinghouse range, one Magic Chef gas range and five trucks ranging from a 5-ton dump truck to a 1-ton van.

Thomas M. Janack, assistant superintendent for maintenance and operations, said the trucks are 1951 to 1968 models.

Romulus student achieves honors

A Romulus resident who achieved a perfect 4.0 grade average during her term studies, has been named to the dean's list at the College of Arts and Sciences of Grand Valley State College.

Cathleen Nolan of 11041 Wayne Rd., was among the 405 students to be awarded such an honor at the close of the 1974 spring term.

Congratulations were extended to the students for their high academic achievement by Dr. John Linnell, dean of the college, which has the largest and most diverse curriculum offerings of Grand Valley's five colleges in west central Michigan.

Group publishes new travel guide

An all-new edition of the popular "Guide to Fun in Michigan" has just been published by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

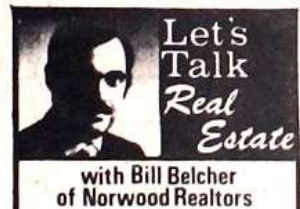

The completely new multicolor publication contains detailed maps of the state's 83 counties, showing the latest roads and highways, hiking trails and canoe routes, lakes and streams, water access sites and ski areas, plus towns, villages and cities. It features fishing hotspots as well as providing information on camping and snowmobile trails. It can be an invaluable aid to hunters, fishermen and all outdoor enthusiasts.

More than 400,000 copies of earlier editions already are in circulation.

The book is available for $5.95 postpaid from Michigan Out-of-Doors, Box 2235, Lansing 48911. Each order placed before Oct. 17 also will include a free copy of the popular "Michigan Mapped Lakes Index."

Listing 2,500 lake maps throughout the state, the index leads the way to contour maps showing water depths, shorelines and types of bottoms in various fishing waters. Specific information also is provided about campgrounds, canoeing, access sites and other valuable material.

Let's Talk Real Estate with Bill Belcher of Norwood Realtors

Selling a house on your own can actually be short changing yourself. Picking a price out of a hat can be either too low or too high. In one case you cheat yourself and in the other you end up with a stale listing that no one will take you up on. A dead listing does no one any good. Realistic pricing will move the house faster, while one that lingers on becomes suspect for that reason alone. It is difficult to revive a prospect's interest after he has moved on to other choices.

Why not call NORWOOD REALTORS, 898 S. Wayne Rd., Westland, 326-4500 & 30519 Ford Rd., Garden City, 522-2900 today with your listing and let us appraise your property realistically; we'll then use our knowledge and experience to sell it for full market value as quickly as possible. Our membership in U.N.R.A. multi-list puts over 3000 salespeople at your disposal. Open: 9-9 Mon-Fri; 9-6 Sat, Sun.

Service group gains funding

An expenditure of $49,000 to help communities involved in the Citizens United for Action (CUFA) continue anti-poverty efforts through June, 1975 has been approved by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

The money recently was authorized by the commissioners to cover a deficit acquired by CUFA between December 1973 and June 1974.

In providing funds to erase the deficit, the commissioners enabled CUFA to use its own scarce resources to qualify for 100 per cent funding from federal sources and local community contributions.

A community action program operating under the federal Economic Opportunity Act, CUFA must provide a 20 per cent local cash match to meet guidelines for future federal grants.

Playwriting contest set for bicentennial year

A dual prize of $3000 and a world premiere production, are being offered by Wayne State University (WSU) in a playwriting competition.

The occasion is the American Bicentennial Celebration and the project is sponsored by the Wayne State University Bicentennial Commission and the University Theatres.

Restrictions on the plays and playwrights are minimal. Plays should deal with some issue in American history which affects us as individuals and as a nation as we enter our third century.

Playwrights may be current or former residents of Michigan, current or former students, faculty or staff members of WSU. If the play is a collaboration, at least one author must fulfill one of these conditions.

Entries must be original.

Owls are quiet

Along with sharp vision and hearing, owls possess an eerie ability to slip soundlessly through the sky. Downy tips on their flight feathers eliminate the whirring sound made by most birds' wings when they beat the air.

full-length plays. They may be based upon factual material, but may not include adaptations or dramatizations of original work written by others and not in the public domain. Plays which have received professional production are ineligible.

Final judging will be by a panel of American directors, scholars and theatre critics.

In addition to the first prize of $3000 and a premiere production, five honorable mentions with accompanying awards of $100 each will be granted, plus consideration for production by the University Theatres.

City golf tourney deadline is set

Area amateur golfers apparently got the message: register early or be left at the sidelines for the 1974 City Championship Golf Tournament.

In a span of 24 hours, 25 golfers have signed up for the tournament which this year will be limited to the first 100.

Westland has already lured 11 including George E. Tompkins, Gary Beer, Roger A. Hayes, Kevin Pollock, Fred Danforth, Herb Lilienthal, William Muncie, Charles T. Blasco, Billie D. McCloud, Greg Grzlik and Richard Plocharczyk.

WAYNE entries include Tom Osborn, Elmer Catherman, Harry Long, Jerry Henneberry, Dan Schewe and Roger Sanford, while Canton has one entry in Allen Rogers. Garden City golfers in the fold are Don Mullett, Richard Reed, Keith Miller and Milton Miller.

The '74 City Championships will be staged at Fellow's Creek Golf Course in Wayne.

The course, in order to handle its regular weekend patrons, has placed a 100-golfer limitation for this year's tournament. Deadline for registration is Wednesday, Aug. 21.

In order to be eligible for the tournament, golfers must either live or work in participating cities: Westland, Wayne, Garden City, Inkster or Canton.

The tournament is co-sponsored by the parks and recreation departments of the participating cities and The Associated Newspapers.

SEPARATE city championships will be held at the same time for amateur male golfers of all five cities and additional flight competition will be held for each city if total entry is sufficient.

Trophies will be awarded by the recreation departments to first, second and third place finishers in each flight and in case of a tie, a "sudden death" playoff will be conducted to determine the winner.

A trophy also will be awarded to the low scorer of the entire field (medalist).

THE GOLFERS will also be shooting for berths on their respective cities teams that will compete in the state recreation golf tournament which will be held next month.

The low five scorers from each city will be eligible for the city team.

Golfers who work in any one of the five participating cities are also eligible to compete in the tournament, however, only bona fide residents may represent a city on the team in the state tournament.

Registration fee has remained at $15 which will cover green's fee ($12) and trophies. In order to enter, golfers should fill out the entry blank found on these pages, and mail it, along with the registration fee to The Daily Eagle, Sports Desk, 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne, Michigan 48184.

Please make checks payable to Tom Mooradian.

Coach's work may haunt him

By TOM MOORADIAN

It isn't often that a man's work comes back to haunt him.

But Jim Hadley, the Dearborn Heights Robichaud High head swimming coach, faces that possibility. He has organized a summer swim program which draws swimmers from both the cities of Dearborn Heights and Inkster.

The monies for the instructions, however, come from Inkster.

"We have about 40 kids in this program from both cities," said Hadley and who has done an excellent job reviving Robichaud High's swim program. "And I really enjoy the work."

"I KNOW THAT some of these kids will someday be swimming against my teams, but it's really gratifying to see the progress some of the kids are making."

Robichaud is Inkster's arch athletic rival. Both schools compete in the Suburban Athletic Conference.

Hadley said he is preparing his group for Saturday's Michigan Parks and Recreation Association age group swim meet. There will be more than 25 communities competing at the meet which will be staged at St. Clair Shores.

"We have some fairly decent representatives in Jim Davis and Ralph Carreathers, two of the boys who swam varsity for me last year," pointed out Hadley, "and Carreathers' brother, Glenn, is also a fine prospect."

"I look for Ken Jackson, who is a 12-year-old from Inkster to be outstanding in his age group as well."

And Dan Schewe, one of the golfers who has registered for the Aug. 24-25 city championship meet, attached this note to the entry blank.

"Although I live in Westland, I would like to play for the championship of the City of Wayne," Schewe writes. "I teach in Wayne at Franklin Junior High."

"Incidentally, I was disappointed that you didn't (unless I missed it) cover the Wayne Summer Festival Golf Tournament which I won."

Sincerely,
Dan Schewe

Dear Dan,

You're welcome to play for the Wayne title. You qualify because you work in the city.

However, the rules stipulate that if you should win as a Wayneite you would be ineligible to compete in the state tournament because "only bona fide residents of a city may represent that city at the state meet."

Also, I'm sorry we missed your victory at the festival - however, if you can beat the city championship field, then you'll get all the headlines you want."

Since we're on the subject of the golf tournaments, please get those entries in as soon as possible.

We'd hate to see anyone left out who wants to play in it.

Comments on people, places and things:

Ray Rafford, the gregarious wrestling coach who was one of the building blocks in Wayne Memorial's outstanding wrestling program, will be leaving Nankin Mills Junior High School as principal this fall for an administrative position at the board offices in the Wayne Westland Community School District.

Romulus crowns champ

ON HIS MARK - With thievery on his mind, this ball player eyes the pitcher suspiciously before bolting for second and a successful steal. The sandlot season reaches a climax this week as local teams vie for district and state playoff berths.

Odd Squad, Kid Power win titles

It's all over for the gals in the Romulus Ladies Softball League.

And would you believe two teams finished the regular season with perfect records?

The Odd Squad accomplished that rare feat in the Eastern Division, while Kid Power managed to string together eight straight wins in the Western Division to match their cross the league rivals.

And the league ended its regular season play over the weekend.

In the East division, the Odd Squad captured the top berth as they beat the Electric Warriors 28-2 as Debbie Wilcox and Pat Dick each slammed a home run for the winners.

Debbie Wilcox and Bertha Sterline also added four R.B.I.s each. Nancy Verduco had the sole home run for the Warriors.

Debbie Sanders and Patty Syplula each homered for the Airline Bombers as they flew past the Bulls 17-10. Hitting by Becky Suthers, Janie Slater, Marie Silvey, Barbara Syplula and Janet Slater sparked the winners.

Standouts for the Bulls were Carol Fehmie who homered and went three for four, and Joyce MacLeod who also had three hits on that day.

The 2001 continued its winning streak and came in in second place, whipping the Bottoms Up, 11-6.

A homerun by Sharon Howie combined with the triple by LeAnn Silvey were just too much for the Bottoms Up. Rose Silvey and Carol Casmer each added three more hits apiece.

In the West, Kid Power remained unbeaten as its captured the division's top spot, by defeating the Seekers 29-1.

Theresa Gibson had three home runs and seven R.B.I.s. Home runs by Tareia Gray, Tina Wilson, Joyce Gray and Gloria Casey clinched the win.

Star pitcher Sue Kramer's ball handling, along with Vickie Walton's home run and Robyn Kotcher's three hits helped the Tarantulas sting the New Streakers 14-3.

Cindy Seward doubled and triped for the Streakers.

Schoolcraft hosts golf trick artist at Oasis

Schoolcraft College will present Paul Bumann at the Oasis Golf Center, August 13 at 8 p.m.

If you like Emmett Kelly or The Harlem Globetrotters, you'll love Paul Bumann. Heralded as Spalding's golf trick shot artist supreme, Bumann's show is "Golf Comedy with a Purpose."

A VETERAN PGA head professional and instructor, Bumann utilizes his fast-paced brand of golf humor to teach many of the game's fundamentals in an entertaining manner.

Like every golf professional, Bumann takes pride in his ability to not only perform well, but instruct as well. His routine is comical, but it's also highly instructional.

For starters, he might warm up with a few driver shots while enticing the audience with both his picture swing and a rapid-fire round of one-liners, many of them aimed directly at the audience.

His muscles flexed, Bumann then begins his trick shot act which is today considered one of the world's finest, both from an entertainment and technical standpoint. His routine includes everything from hitting a driver while sitting down to belting four teed up golf balls at once - with

Romulus Welding remains unbeaten

Flashing a hefty 18-0 record, Romulus Welding is well on its way of sewing up the B League championship in the Romulus Softball League.

The league-pace setters turned back a pesky Wayne County Sheriff's contingent 7-3 to ice its 18 straight win in the league.

Mark McNett, Kenny Mienkiewicz and Hugh Miller provided the winners with key hits while Paul DeBuyscher was credited with the victory.

Meanwhile, over in the Class A, Huron Valley Steel eked out a narrow 15-14 victory over Carpentery by Woodcraft to stay in first place.

Rafford, who had some excellent wrestling teams when he coached at Wayne in the mid-sixties, also rejuvenated the junior high athletic programs to get more students interested in competing.

Wherever Ray goes, sports and athletics will have a friend.

BOB BOUDREAU, Belleville High's track and cross country coach for the past four years, apparently has called it quits. The job(s) has gone to Bruce Romant, a coach who has guided North Junior High (in Belleville) to two championships in the last three years.

RAY RAFFORD

Romant is an excellent pick, according to Harry Hidenfelter, Belleville High's athletic director. "Bruce has done a superb job with the junior high program and we are certain he will do likewise as our head cross country and track coach."

Another veteran coach who has thrown in the towel is Tom Klinefelter, the ex-Crestwood High (Dearborn Heights) athletic director who has more than a decade seniority as a tennis coach in the Tri-River.

KLINFELTER, whose teams have been contenders - the Chargers won it all in tennis last year - since the Tri-River's inception, said he was bowing out of coaching because he wanted to devote his "time to other things."

Denim Dolls came out on top of the Swingers, 18-7. Judy Millers home run and Martha Bowen's triple, knocking in three runs, sparked the day for the winners. Eunice Curry tripled and doubled and Sue Martin hit two singles and a double.

Hitting was the order of the day as the Kel Joys downed the Foul Balls 34-0. Debbie Nieman homered and tripled twice. Sandy Selle also hit a home run and had a perfect day at bat. Cheryl Lynn went six for six along with Sharon Bogetta's five hits for the winners.

Rain-out games also were made up during the past week as Tarantulas beat out the Foul Balls 32-11. Dixie Cobb slugged two home runs and Denise Gabany added one more.

Mary Dziedzic went five for five for the day with Kathy Mulready adding four more hits.

KID POWER came out on top again as it was slammed by the Denim Dolls 32-1. Priscilla Gray and Tareia Gray each hit three homers with Gloria Casey adding one. ona Feather, Debra Shallow, Judy Mellens, Martha Bowen and Sharon Smith all singled for the Dolls.

Debbie Wilcox and Pat Dick homered for the odd Squad as it added another win, cooling the Red Hots 13-6. In their losing efforts, Sheila Gira contributed three hits. Allison Ziembowicz had 4 RBI's.

Airline Bombers came out on the losing end of a 14-4 contest with the Bottoms-Up. Janie Slater doubled three times with Patty Carenter adding a triple and a double for the losers.

Diane Kampsen had the solo home run for the Bottoms Up. Cindy Nixon, Jan Madaski, Kathy Glinski, Lila Bogetta and Sena Westjohn combined for 24 hits as the Kel Joys ran by the New Streakers 27-7.

Sandy Selle homered for the winners. Vicki Szyndlar was the top bat for the Streakers with her home run, triple and double.

Kid Power bombed the Airline Bombers 17-6 as Margie Silvey, Janie Slater and Vick Wyzys were the top bats for the bombers. Kid Power was held to its lowest score this season.

Vicky Gray had the Kid's solo homer, with four hits each added by Joyce Gray and Tina Wilson. Swingers outscored the Seekers 28-17. Barb Wise had six hits with Denise Hadyniak and Debbie Vickstrom each adding three singles and two home runs.

Proceeds from the exhibition will be donated to the Schoolcraft College student loan fund. Tickets for the event are available at the College bookstore, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia and the Oasis Golf Center, Five Mile at Haggerty. Donations are $1 and tickets are also good for various golf door prizes.

TICKETS are also available at the Livonia Mall, Wonderland Shopping Center, Elliotts Saddlery in Plymouth, Northville Sporting Goods and Laphams Clothing also in Northville. Various golf courses throughout the College district have also agreed to sell tickets.

Individuals need not be present to win door prizes and if they do not attend may use their ticket for one complementary round of putt putt golf before October 1, 1974. For further ticket information call 591-6400, extension 222.

Teachers upset champs

Underestimating an enemy can be dangerous as three-time champ Blue Boar Inn discovered this week in the Belleville Softball League.

Blue Boar, unbeaten on the diamond for three consecutive seasons, saw its streak end at the hands of Belleville Teachers who rallied for a 3-2 victory over the champs.

Blue Boar ended the regular season with an 18-1 record, far out of reach of the field and Belleville Teachers who had amassed a 13-6 record.

The teams turn their thoughts to playoffs this week as Blue Boar, the Teachers, PLAV and the Ducks maneuver into position to capture the coveted trophy.

Largest festival is set; Polish treats available

Entertainment

Western Wayne County residents who venture to Detroit this weekend will find one of the largest ethnic festivals ever, Friday through Sunday on the Cobo Hall riverfront.

The Polish Festival Committee will set up three separate stages with continuous entertainment, each with its own cluster of food booths and handicraft displays, to enable more people to take advantage of the Polish Ethnic Festival.

There will be 100 booths overall stretching the entire length of the Cobo Hall riverfront. Many booths will offer Polish delicacies such as pierogi (stuffed with cheese, cabbage and potatoes), kiska, nalesniki, Kielbasa, Polish ham, flaczki (tripe with sauerkraut), sausages and pastries.

Traditional Polish crafts — woodcarving, fabric cut-outs, doll costume designing and painting on glass — will be demonstrated.

A mini-museum, under the direction of Bruno Nowicki, will feature the works of outstanding Poles in science, music, art and letters.

Other scheduled festival events will be polka contests, sing-along sessions and fashion shows of regional Polish costumes, directed by program chairman Mrs. Harrietta Glowacki.

Festival hours are 6 p.m. to 11 p.m. Friday, and noon to 11 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Beaver Island offers peace

Once it wasn't peaceful. Its turbulent history includes just about every type of crime, including arson and murder. But that is all past history, and those looking for a quiet vacation will find Beaver Island in Lake Michigan to be a perfect location.

In fact, it might be a little too quiet. Even the mostly Irish natives of the island agree, since meeting the boat from the mainland is one of the most popular island pastimes.

"But you'll look a long time before you find a friendlier place," said Joseph Ratke, touring manager for the Automobile Club of Michigan. "People greet you as if they meant it."

IN CONTRAST to today's peace and quiet is the island's past. It has known the rule of a Mormon despot and also the kindness of a high-born Russian exile who devoted his life to helping others, Ratke said.

The island's present attractions are its natural beauty, the fishing in its inland lakes, hunting, bathing beaches and modern accommodations. The 14 by six-mile island also boasts a 9-hole golf course and a miniature course.

The largest island in the Beaver Archipelago, and also the largest in Lake Michigan, Big Beaver or Beaver Island, is 25 miles northwest of Charlevoix and 35 miles southwest of the Straits of Mackinac. Beaver Island was so-named because on old maps it looked like a stretched-out beaver skin.

The island can be reached by charter flying service from Charlevoix or Harbor Springs.

Contest winners to split big cash

Top winners in the 1974 Michigan State Fair livestock, horse, poultry and youth exhibit judging are expected to split and additional $39,000 this year.

And expected 20 per cent increase in the premium purses for the four judging classifications was announced recently by Robert McLachlan, supervisor of the fairs' agriculture and livestock exhibits.

McLachlan said a total of $195,000 will be awarded in the BANK SHOT — This product of an artist's wild imagination gives some idea of the zany comedy to be found in "Bank Shot," starring George C. Bunyan's spirit is alive

The saga of Paul Bunyan, first written about by James MacGillivray of Oscoda, will come to life again in that northern Michigan town beginning Aug. 15 and running through Aug. 18.

This, the Fourth Annual Paul Bunyan Festival, is a 4-day event designed to commemorate the famous woodsman who, according to resource books, spent the better part of his fabled life in the Oscoda-AuSable area of the AuSable River Valley.

Among the attractions planned for the Oscoda festival area a 2-month beard growing contest—which began in June—log rolling and horse-pulling contests, costumes representing the logging era, dances, pancake breakfasts and various rides and games for youngsters.

THE FESTIVAL committee anticipates a crowd of nearly 30,000 to attend the event, and they cordially invite any interested in this classic piece of American folklore to attend.

How to buy a house.

Part 1
LOCATION

A lot of people know exactly what kind of house they want, where they want it to be, and how to go about buying it. But a lot of people don't so we decided that for the next few weeks, we, being professional real estate people, would give you a few pointers. We hope they'll help.

The first thing to consider is location. Do other people of your age and economic level live in the area? Is it close to public transportation? Is water, gas and electricity near by? Is it near schools, parks and shopping areas? Is the neighborhood on the way up? (if not, you may soon be dissatisfied and you'll probably lose money on the resale. What is the tax situation? Is there going to be any increase or special assessment? What about zoning, and insurance? Can you expand the house if need be? Is the lot large enough?

Don't be afraid to ask. And ask and ask and ask. Some answers may surprise you, others you may not like. But the time to find out is BEFORE you agree to buy the house. Now, (if you're still with us), we know all these things because it's our business to know. Call us; ask us questions; because we want you to know too.
